In Dedication

For his deep interest in students—as shown by his service as president of two Adventist colleges,

For his concern for true scholarship—

as demonstrated by his editorship of a Japanese-English dictionary,

For his devotion to the maintenance of Christian principles and Christian education,

And for his life of service to his fellowmen,

to his country, and to God,

This book is dedicated to Dr. Andrew N. Nelson, instructor and friend.

. . . Andrew N. Nelson, Ph.D.

To Be of Service . . .

A preparation for service—in profession, in religion, and in citizenship—the aim of La Sierra College through the endeavors of faculty and students for development and growth in all facets of life.

In September rainbow-beanied freshmen come in excited, awe-struck hoards to the immense amusement of wiser upperclassmen who already know who teaches French reading, where room 201 is,
 how far it is to town.

Then, in June, the once naive, unknowing freshmen
 leave as black-capped seniors, solemn, grave sophisticates, who have learned the proper things to think and say and do.

They all arrive and depart, and somewhere in between they leave a trail of happy moments, moments of laughter, of fun,
 of service to class, school,
 and study.

At the end of the week, after five long days of sporadic concentration on books, tests, and lectures, student masses stream through warped doors of staid old buildings and escape to the anticipation of a week-end of release from routine.

Busy, hectic nights, continually crammed with study, are exchanged for relaxation on inviting lawns and shaded walks, as study and service are momentarily laid aside, while spirits become re-vitalized before moving on to another week.

During a warm afternoon when the sun beats hotly on dusty palm fronds, or in the evening when twilight obliterates daytime shadows, patios, sidewalks, and the campus drive become places for student congregation, places for sharing excitement, defeat, inspiration and knowledge.

Friends meet here to share the quiet after-moments that follow silent meditation or special events of college life.

And here companions group to discuss with conviction things both fleeting and lasting, to become close small groups of understanding, to prepare for a life of service in a world filled with other people.

When nighttime supersedes the day and the color wheel of hours revolves from light to dark, the house of God turns on its outward lights and guides the way to meditation, silent song, and prayer.

The freeway traffic, the voice of man,
the loud-mouthed boom of great-winged planes grow dim beneath the stained glass of the silent shrine.

The cafeteria line, the library stacks, the laughter, the shouts, and the intellectual concentration of student life are dispersed by the calm quiet voice of God, and the kaleidoscope thoughts of the external world are replaced by thoughts of the spiritual life.

Then we become still and know that we are God's and service is strengthened through Him.

Latin Ame rica Tour

Latin America — land of contrast — of bustling activity and siestas, of music and color, of extremes in climate and altitude, of the many faces.

—Latin America, the destination last summer for the first Latin America Tour by La Sierra students under the direction of Dr. Grace Alvarez.

The Spanish-speaking and would-be Spanish speaking students on this tour participated in Spanish customs and life as they studied the culture and toured the high points of Latin America.

France La Sierra

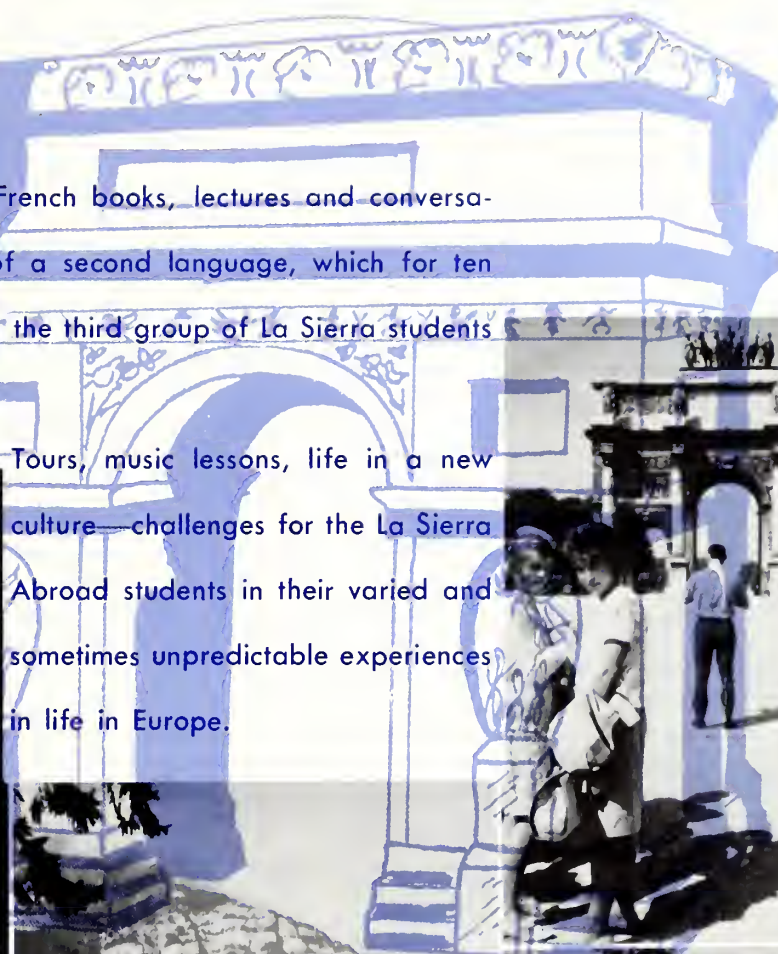

Year Abroad

French professors, French friends, French books, lectures and conversation contribute to the knowledge of a second language, which for ten months demands first place for this, the third group of La Sierra students at Collonges, France.

Tours, music lessons, life in a new culture—challenges for the La Sierra Abroad students in their varied and sometimes unpredictable experiences in life in Europe.

Collonges

France

Wenda St. Peter—pausing for refreshments.

"l'eau natural" is anticipated by Linda Taylor, a sophomore year-abroad student.

Herr breaking through the French sound barrier during Collonges "Candle-light Service."

Thanksgiving '64, Geneva, Switzerland

American Muscles Win

The baptistry with a background of peaceful beauty.

Seasick convalescents at the rail.

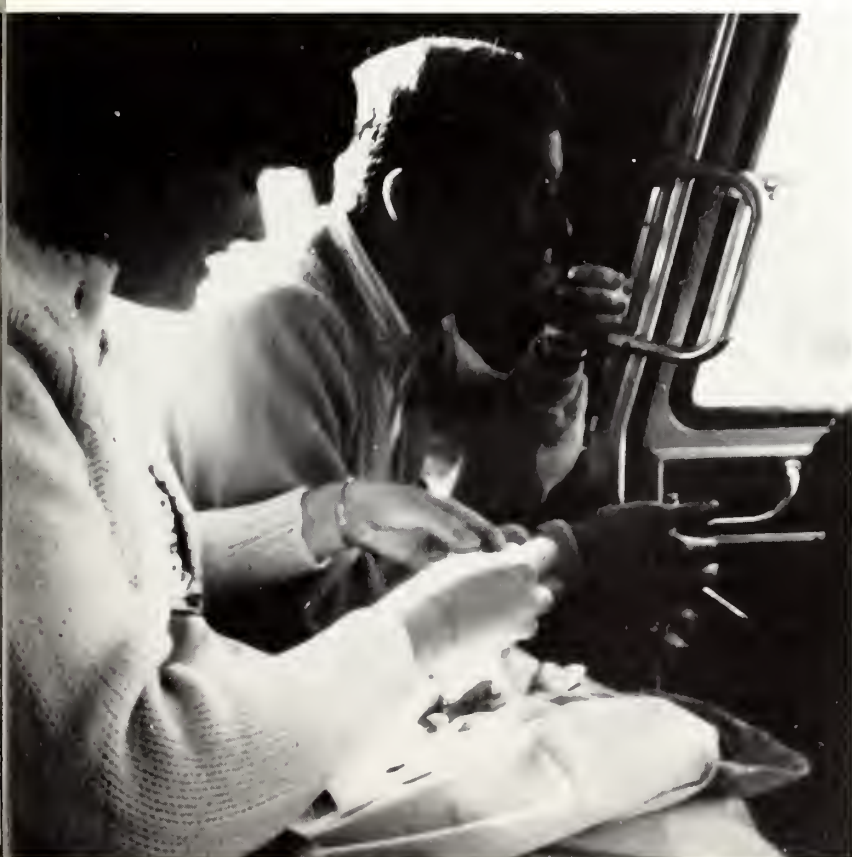

Automatic dishwashers—a la Collonges.

"Sing along en Francais" le Central, Collonges.

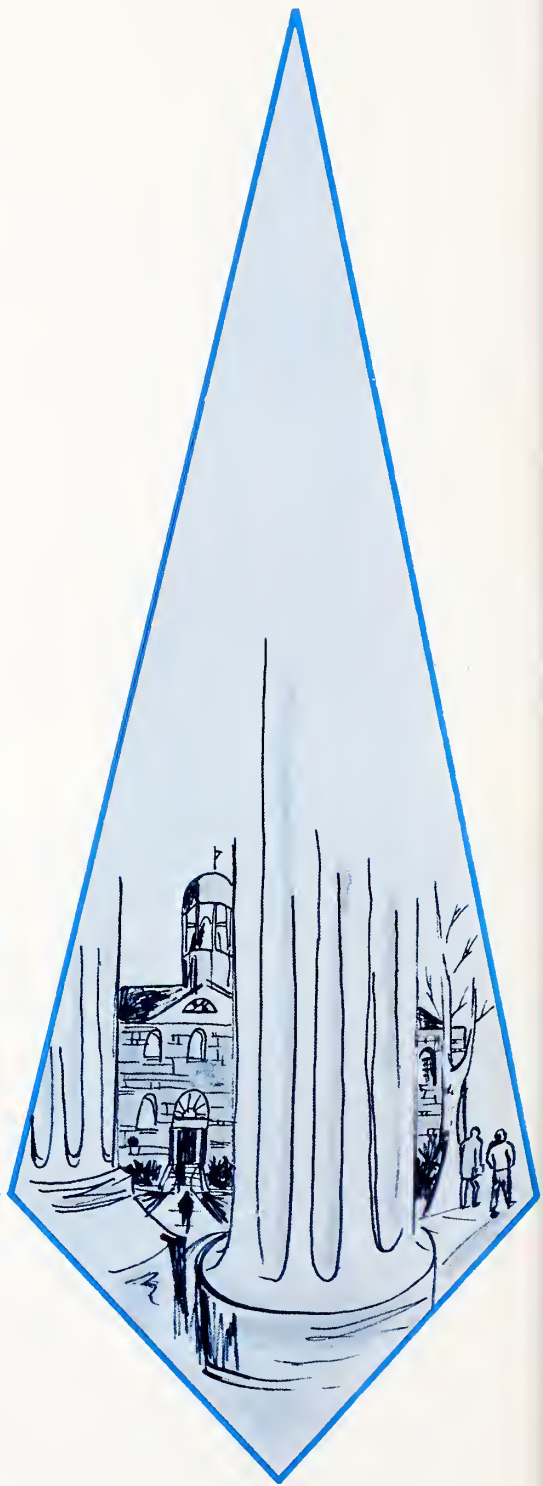

La Chapelle, Collonges-sous-Saleve.

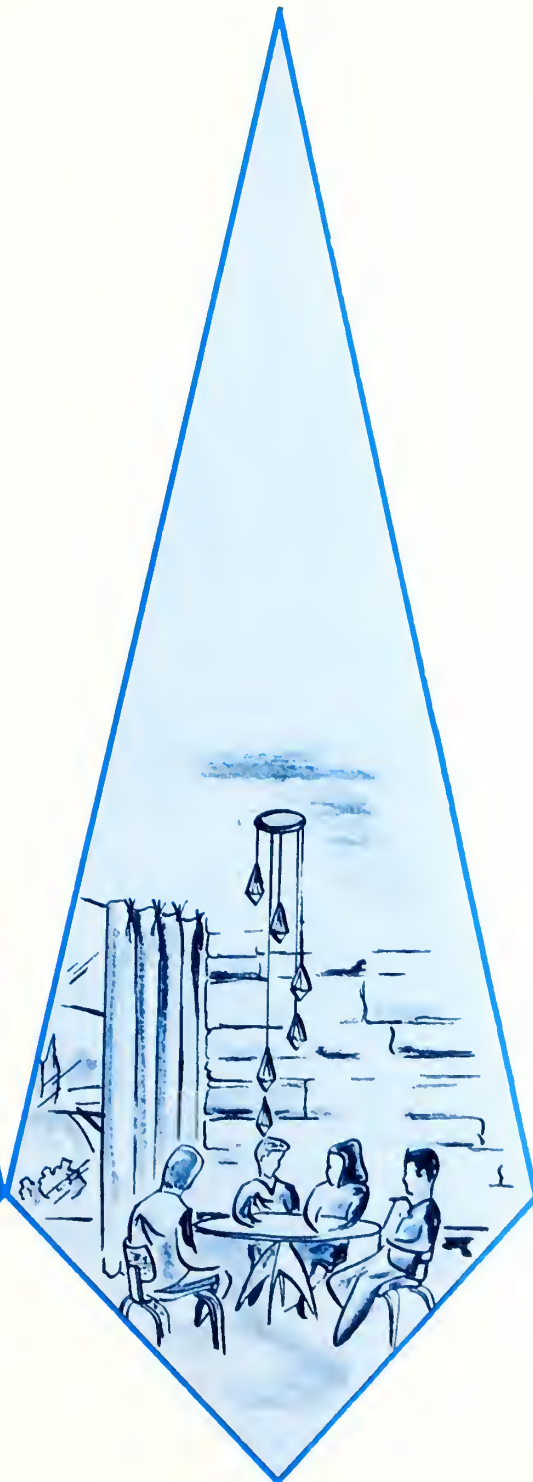

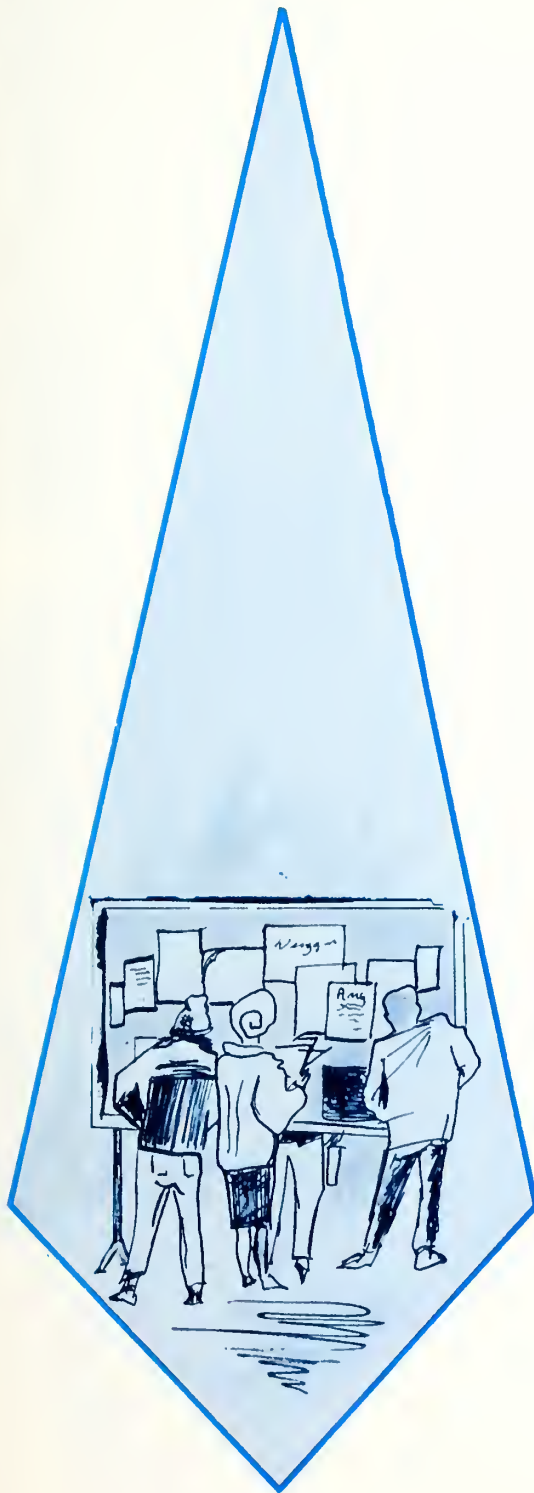

The traditional Friday night assignment for the fellows—Steve Walls and Bob Herr presiding.

The pause that refreshes—Grand Place, Brussels.

Meeting a Need

Keeping La Sierra green.

Angwin girls served as hostesses for the Finnish gymnasts, campus guests for a week.

Norita Rusk and first bite at SPK Watermelon Feed.

Active participation in student government is seen in annual voting by students at the polls.

As the campus lawns become yawning holes, students gather to watch "progress" in action.

Student participation is seen at the annual retreat in refreshing outdoor activities.

Student opinions are formed from observations of many activities.

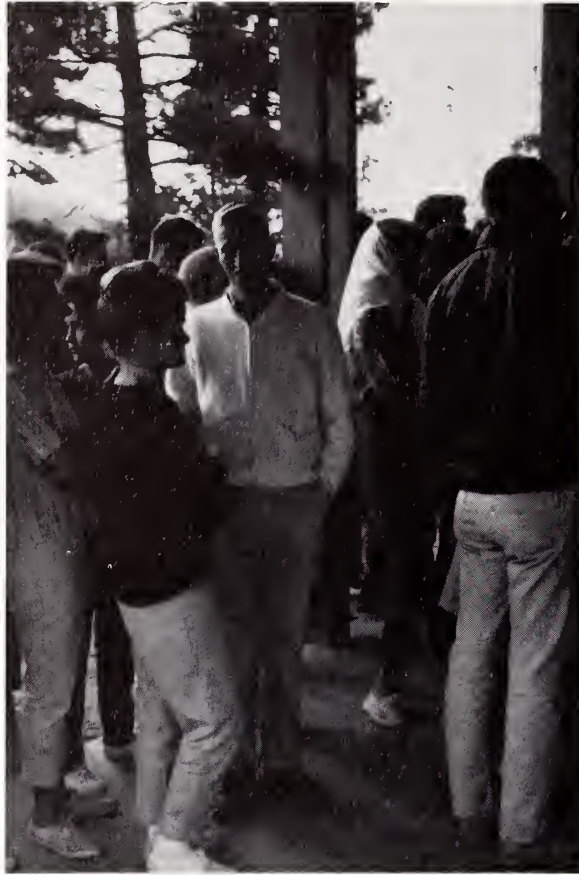

Progress is noted on campus through long-range campus remodeling and construction.

Off-campus activities provide opportunity for student participation and meditation to produce spiritual progress and growth.

The Collegians Retreat

Enthusiasm and cheerful chattering could be seen about the campground as the horde of college students and sponsors descended upon the Pine Springs Ranch, an Adventist camp site with lodge, cafeteria, and outdoor campfire circle and trails, located in Southern California.

A weekend of devotional services and outdoor activities provided a refreshing break as students actively participated in the discussions, outdoor activities, and Saturday night entertainment.

The "retreating" collegians gather at Camp Pine Springs.

Unscrambling the maze and staking a claim is the first job on arrival.

"Oh, I brought it to keep away the bears."

Breath-taking views of mountains and greenery provides a refreshing break from books.

Lodging for the week-end in the beautiful Pine Springs setting.

Invigorating air plus mountain exercise equal hearty appetites.

Here today—gone tomorrow.

"Why the Sabbath?" questions the faculty panel, moderated by Elder Royal Sage, assistant professor of religion.

Pine Spring R

"Chow Time" for the hungry campers.

And always—dinner lines!
Jim Ritacca—and dishes.

anch

Ambitious hikers return, crossing the camp bridge after their brisk excursion.

Destination reached, the hikers relax, enjoying the evening's entertainment.

The humorous reading brings grins from listening couples.

"Two-Bits" by twilight for enthusiastic hikers in the 1964 and the 1965 school years, or weekend retreating for the more ambitious, provided opportunities for group activities in the balmy Southern California climate.

Marshmallows and collegians toast at fireside!

Hikers - By Day or By Night

A retreat tradition—the informal song services.

Final arrangements are made by Gary Case, in charge of the Master Guide program.

Topics of youth leadership stimulate much interest and after-meeting discussion.

The many fans of Dusty gather around as he and his friends pay the campers a visit.

Dr. Landeen initiates occupation of the 1965 Student Center.

The grand opening of the LSC students center was the culmination of nine months of fund raising, remodeling, construction, and furnishing of a student center which includes snack bar, lounge, game rooms, and ASLSC executive offices and publications offices and darkroom.

The Old English-style snack bar prepares for action.

A small part of the first night inspection crowd.

An inviting corner of the lounge is a seat at the fireplace.

The Grand Tour

Dr. Simpson "caught" in the Meteor office.

The lighted fountain in Trophy Hall greets the visitors in the paneled entrance.

Open House - Before and After

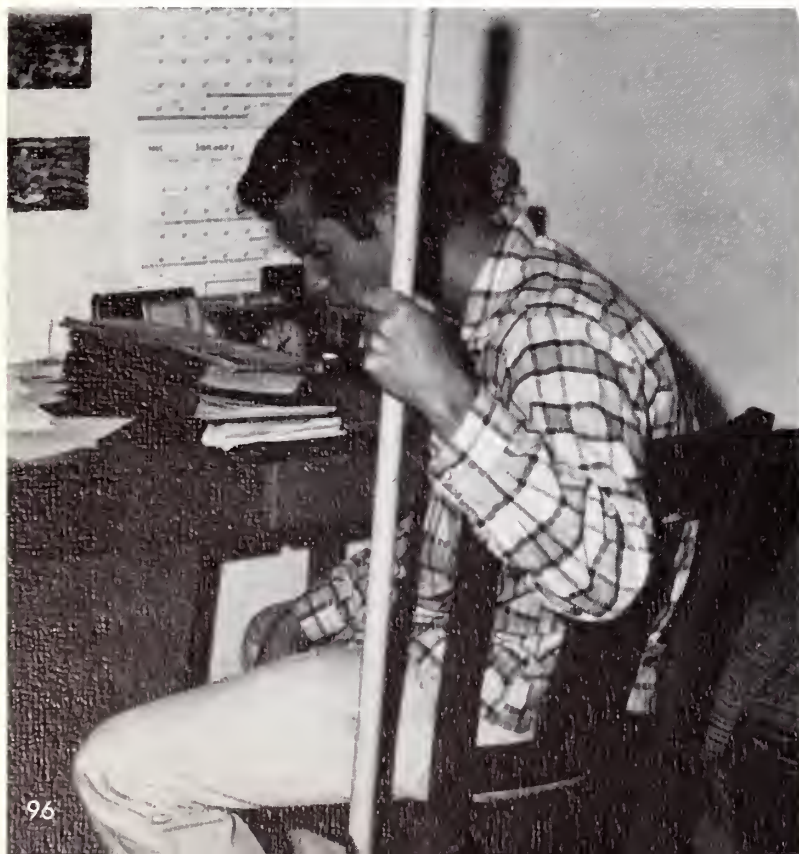

Guiding the last weary student dorm-ward, the soft glow lights the path to Calkins.

"So this is college" sighs Don Hansen at semester exam time.

Learned or to be learned, that is the question.

A flurry of activity with dust flying and suds swishing symbolized Open House for Calkins and MBK Halls, as the men of Mu Beta Kappa hosted an evening of touring and entertaining.

The men's dorms, out of chaos into order—for a change — were the scene of the annual open house. MBK men and their dates toured uniquely decorated rooms and completed the evening with refreshments and a film.

Theme for the 1965 speech production was a one-cast dramatization of "Family Portrait." The five scenes of the production featured the house in Nazareth immediately following Jesus' departure on His first mission; the wine shop at Capernaum; the house in Nazareth eight years later.

The 1965 speech production was under the direction of Dr. Fletcher Tarr, Miss Jackie Nichols, student director, and Prof. Donald Dick.

The Classes Organi

Class activities, fund-raising campaigns, plans and programs are the responsibility of the class officers for the four undergraduate classes and their sponsors. Scheduling and coordination provide a big challenge for these campus leaders.

Officers of the Sophomore Class: Jon Butler, Publicity; Secretary; Leland Giddings, President; Pat Cowan, Davidson, Pastor; Steve Fisher, Treasurer.

Officers of the Freshman Class: Richard Duerksen, Treasurer; Lorraine Kragstad, Vice-president; Paul Meier, President; Charlene Seitz, Secretary; Stan Aufdembert, Pastor.

Claudia Kolpacoff,
Vice-president; Dick

Officers of the Junior Class: Steve Shank, President; Karyl Jones, Vice-president; George Lejnieks, Treasurer; Carol Roth, Secretary; Glenn Ruminson, Pastor.

Officers of the Senior Class: Sharon Mason, Secretary; Jerry Chudleigh, Pastor; Steve Berthelson, President; Bill Scott, Treasurer; Marilyn "Bug" Koelsche, Vice-President.

Senior Presentation

The one-hundred-and-five-member senior class was officially presented to faculty, student body and friends in a December assembly, by Dr. W. M. Landeen, president of the college, and Dr. Alonzo Baker, sponsor of the senior class.

Sigma Phi Kappa, the women's campus club, meets weekly for programs of music, lectures, demonstrations, and films.

The SPK Club sponsored a Mother-Daughter Banquet and a Christmas Party this year, and has given several exchange programs with the women's club of California Baptist College.

Officers of Sigma Phi Kappa, first semester: Karyl Jones, Jackie Nichols, Macherie King, and Sheila Kandt, President.

Officers of Sigma Phi Kappa, second semester: Beverly Gale, Ulla Svendsen, Nancy Minick, Deita Hennig, Ara Thomas, President; Kay Reiswaig, and Lillian Rice.

Mu Beta Kappa

Officers of Mu Beta Kappa, first semester: Ron Fritz, Mike Norris, President; Ralph Neideigh, John Peterson, Richard Harding and Art Donaldson.

Mu Beta Kappa, the campus men's club, meets weekly and provides programs of films, sports music and lectures for the campus men.

An MBK Week of Devotion was conducted during the Spring semester, and the members of the club presented many on-campus and off-campus music programs.

Officers of Mu Beta Kappa, second semester: Bud Steen, Richard Harding, Larry Miller, President; Jini Robeson, and Raul Hayasaka.

Campus Clubs

The largest professional club on campus, the Pre-Medical Club is presided over by Dave Seibly, President; Dr. Tupper, Advisor; Jack Hockin, Vice-President; Karyl Jones, Secretary; Jim Ritacca, Treasurer.

The Jurisprudence Club: Mickey Lawson; Dennis Park; Gary Blount; Jim Merizan, president; Leonard Ramey and Alice Smith.

Professional clubs, as the Jurisprudence Club, and the Physics Club, are organized by the students to provide opportunities for professional growth through journals, films, and lectures presented to the group.

Once again it is my privilege to introduce to our faculty, students, alumni and patrons the METEOR for 1965. As with all annuals, it presents chiefly in pictures the varied college activities during the year 1964-65.

However, back of the photography and the dress-up of the volume, done with so much care and labor by its editorial staff, lies the deeper significance of a school year of hard work, earnest purpose, and solid results. Christian education, as espoused by La Sierra College, is not an achievement of the spiritually and mentally weak but of the vigorous and strong. It is a severe exercise in character endurance. It represents scholarly excellence and Christian growth.

I am pleased to commend to your perusal the 1965 METEOR.

ADMINISTRATION

Always striving to improve the facilities of La Sierra College, the Administration launched the Ten-Year Plan with the completion of a new girls' worship room, construction of a new student center, and the initial remodeling of the cafeteria.

Ronald D. Drayson, Ph.D. The vice-president for development is responsible for collecting funds from public and private sources for scholarships and maintenance notes.

Richard B. Lewis, Ph.D. Academic Dean—the problem solver for students with scholastic difficulties and drop notices and for teachers with questions on academic standards and accreditation.

William G. Nelson, M.A. In addition to his duties as Dean of Students, he is advisor to the ASLSC and chairman of the Dean's Council and Student Affairs.

PUBLIC AFFAIRS

Projecting a favorable picture of the college to parents, friends, and strangers is the aim of the public relations office. This year it published the La Sierra College IDEA, a news quarterly reporting school progress, and again it arranged for students to participate in the Year Abroad program in Collonges, France.

John T. Hamilton, M.Mus. Public Relations Director, LSC Year Abroad Coordinator, ex-choir director—these are a few of the facets of "John T."

Virginia Lewis and Sharon Smith. The Public Relations Secretaries help keep the world aware of what's going on at LSC, edit the new publication LSC Idea, and keep tabs on the alumni of the school.

Naomi Peterson, Marian Osborne, Mildred Harrison, and Gwen Case. The "girls Friday" of the campus administration, without whom their bosses would be lost.

Continually accessible, the switchboard operators are always willing to facilitate campus calls, and business personnel are constantly available to help students solve financial problems.

Gaydene Villegas The charming voice of the switchboard operator is often the first contact a stranger has with La Sierra College.

Isle Azevedo, Louisa Chaffee, Wanda Toews, Eleanor Brant, checks time cards, and the many financial records involved in the college program are processed by these efficient women.

Janice Butzbach, B.A. "Miss Janice," the smiling cashier, cheerfully fills the stream of requests for check cashing and accounting needed.

BUSINESS OFFICE

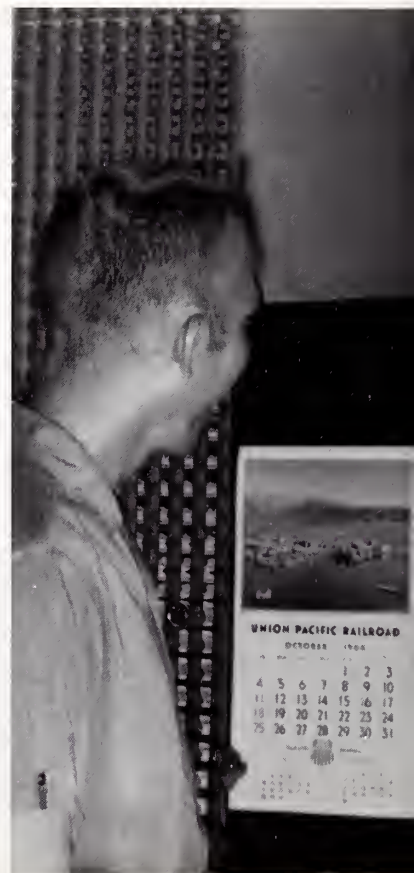

This year the work of the business office has been somewhat simplified by the flat-rate system, which eliminates the need of monthly statements; but it is still necessary to handle student fees, bank accounts, payroll checks, and correspondence, tasks which the office accomplishes with an amazing amount of patience.

Robert H. Hervig, M.B.A. You think you have budget problems? Try the job of Business Manager for a college with 1300 students and 100 faculty and staff members!

Wilfred Hillock, M.B.A. As Treasurer for the college, he is responsible for promoting financial matters such as the flat-rate tuition and board established this year at La Sierra.

A. H. Parker, B.A. "Can I asks Mr. Parker as he the, orders of the needs of the college."

Muriel Walden. Assisted by Don Pettibone and others, she collects and delivers mail and duplicates materials for the campus departments.

C. Roscoe Swan, M.A. For students in need of jobs, loans or scholarships to assist them in college, the monogor of student finance is the "indispensible mon."

Earl Gillespie, B.A. As college accountant and certified notary public, Mr. Gillespie services the business needs.

REGISTRAR

From the moment the student first contemplates entering La Sierra College until he leaves with diploma in hand, his college career is affected by the registrar's office. It is here that students find themselves when they have class conflicts, petitions, drop vouchers, re-registration, or transcripts to be sent to graduate schools.

Kathy Koehn Cheerfully answering the host of "urgent" daily questions and problems, Kathy Koehn, registrar assistant, serves as secretary, receptionist, and information center.

Robert Osmunson and Kathryn Wood The admissions staff handled 1824 applications last summer, of which 1662 were accepted and 1330 were enrolled in September.

Registration—a competent college entrance test in itself.

ADMISSIONS

Each spring the admissions committee contacts academies to carry out an extensive testing program to determine who the entering freshmen will be. The success of their discussions and examinations last year was attested to by the increased number of students last fall.

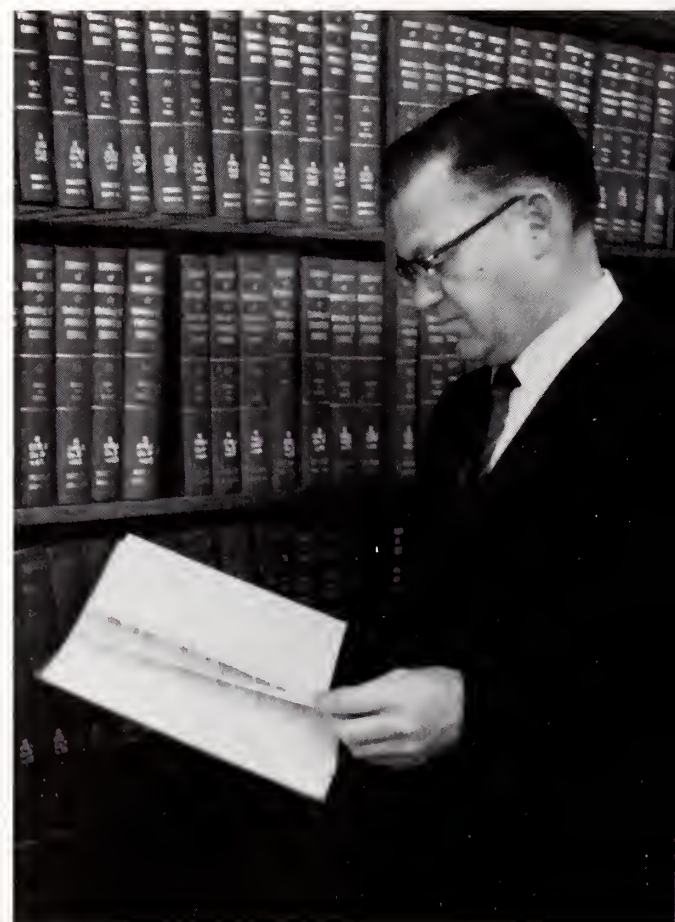

D. Glenn Hilts, B.S. The librarian is head of one of the most organized departments on campus, having approximately 70,000 volumes to process plus magazines, newspapers, pamphlets, and patrons.

LIBRARY

The much-frequented library with its stacks of books is as familiar to the student as his own room. But the library, helpful as it is, is far too small and has too few books for a developing college campus. Plans are now underway for building new facilities.

After class students hesitate before entering the library to cram for another test.

Elwood Mabley, M.A. Filling book orders from the many departmental requests, with an eye on the budget, is Mr. Mabley's responsibility in an effort to maintain a library equipped for collegiate needs.

Grace Prentice, M.S. Students arrive with gratitude for the efficiency of Miss Prentice, reference librarian and instructor of the Library Science class.

Intent on absorbing the elements of shorthand, a student concentrates in the library.

Lois Walker, B.S. A new member of the LSC library staff, Miss Walker works with the cataloging and classifying of new titles.

MEN'S DORMITORY

For the whole long school year the dorm is the home of the student, and even though the control of the deans is ever present—exerted when chaos becomes too much, when water fights and indoor football get out of hand—the lobby, the halls, and the individual rooms are the continual domain of the students.

Perpetual noise and incessant activity prove that this is a test of survival of the fittest.

Tracy R. Teele, M.Ed. Serving as Dean of Men for Calkins Hall, and instructor in education, Dean Teele was on the La Sierra College campus for 3½ years, taking a leave of absence this spring semester to fulfill doctoral requirements at Denver University.

Richard T. Orrison, B.S. An enthusiastic sponsor of campus Social Affairs events, Dean Orrison enjoys participation with students in varied activities and is well known for his interesting devotional talks and culinary abilities. He assumed the added responsibility of Dean of Men in the Spring following the leave of absence by Dean Teele.

Earn while you learn, . . . or learn while you sleep, or . . . ? says Jim Rabison during a slack period at the manitar desk.

Wilburn McClintock, B.S. MBK darm is his primary domain, but he also finds time far the dark raam and instruction af the photagraphy class.

WOMEN'S DORMITORY

Hurried preparation for a special event, last minute typing of a term paper, the quick journey to the market for one forgotten item, all illustrate the frantic pace of dorm life. When the dorm doors close, the parlor reverts to the use of the girls who troop downstairs with arms full of books to settle by the fireplace to exchange the day's news or even to study.

Vivian Smith, M.A. Eager to help with an English problem, to discuss good camping sites, or to counsel in a heart-to-heart talk, Mrs. Smith, Dean of Women, handles all with constant cheerfulness.

Hannah Hagstotz, M.A. The freshman girls find the assistant dean for Gladwyn dorm a mother away from home.

With smiling faces and books in hand, Angwin residents emerge from the new girls' worship room.

Joyce McClintock, B.A. For freshmen encountering problems the assistant Dean is often a source of genuine reassurance.

Angwin parlor—for study or relaxation

AGRICULTURE

A strong background in farm management is available at La Sierra College through the full-scale agricultural, poultry, and dairy departments operating on campus. It is possible for young men and women to learn the theories of these processes and to obtain practical experience and application.

Glen A. Houck, M.S. Administration of the Agriculture Department, which includes classroom instruction, and coordination of the farm, poultry, dairy and creamery, is conducted by Mr. Houck.

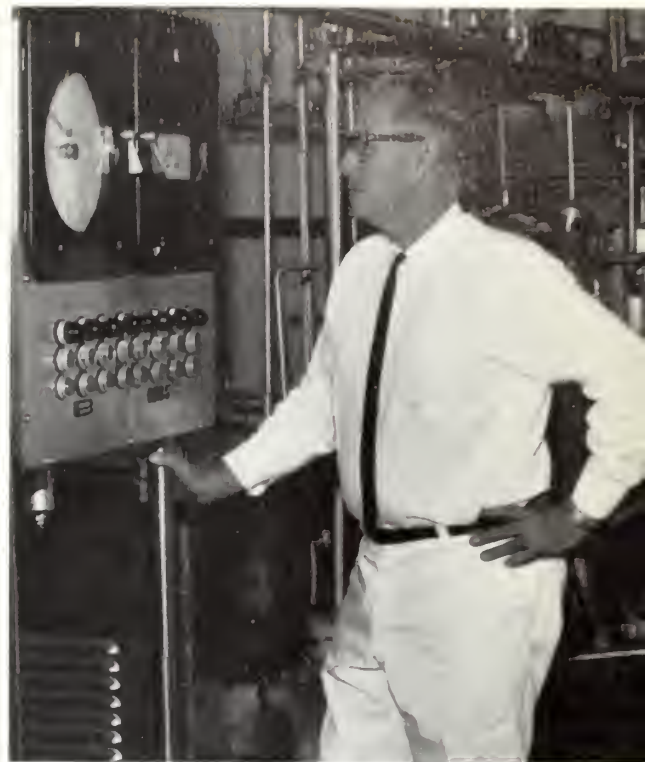

Herald A. Habenicht, M.A. "From Moo to You" is the motto of the dairy manager and assistant professor of agriculture. And with the acquisition this year of Loma Linda Dairy's cows, there are plenty of "Moo's."

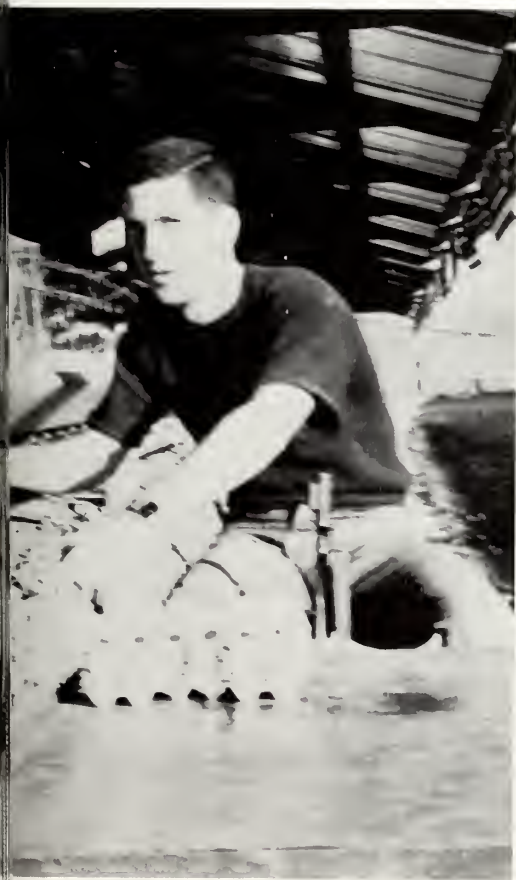

Herbert Polk, B.S. "The Egg Man of LSC" is the poultry manager, with 50,000 birds under his jurisdiction.

Raymond Hartley The conversion of milk into dairy products is under the direction of Mr. Hartley, creamery manager. Pliny Webb is Sales Manager.

Lee Davis LSC's "Man With the (mechanized) Hoe" is the manager of the farm.

John Carr, B.A. Assistant Professor of Agriculture.

Student assistants, as Thomas Dybdall, help maintain the standards of efficiency necessary for poultry management.

ART

During the first semester the art department moved to new, enlarged quarters on campus. At last all classrooms and the art gallery are located in the same building, enabling instructors and students to work more efficiently. Larger quarters make it possible for more students to take advantage of the classes in ceramics, painting and sculpture.

Chloe Adams Sofsky, M.F.A. Well-known for her stained-glass windows and her poodle, Tajma, Mrs. Sofsky teaches in the field of fine arts.

Steve Fisher + intense concentration = finished chalkwork.
(Pre-dents—it's required.)

Herschel Hughes, B.A. In the corner of many posters and cover designs of campus publications will be found the initials "H H" of Mr. Hughes, instructor of commercial art, and Meteor co-advisor.

The engrossed attitude of a productive artist is typified here in a student's creative sketching.

The softened clay slowly takes shape under the careful fingers of Carol Purdy, art student.

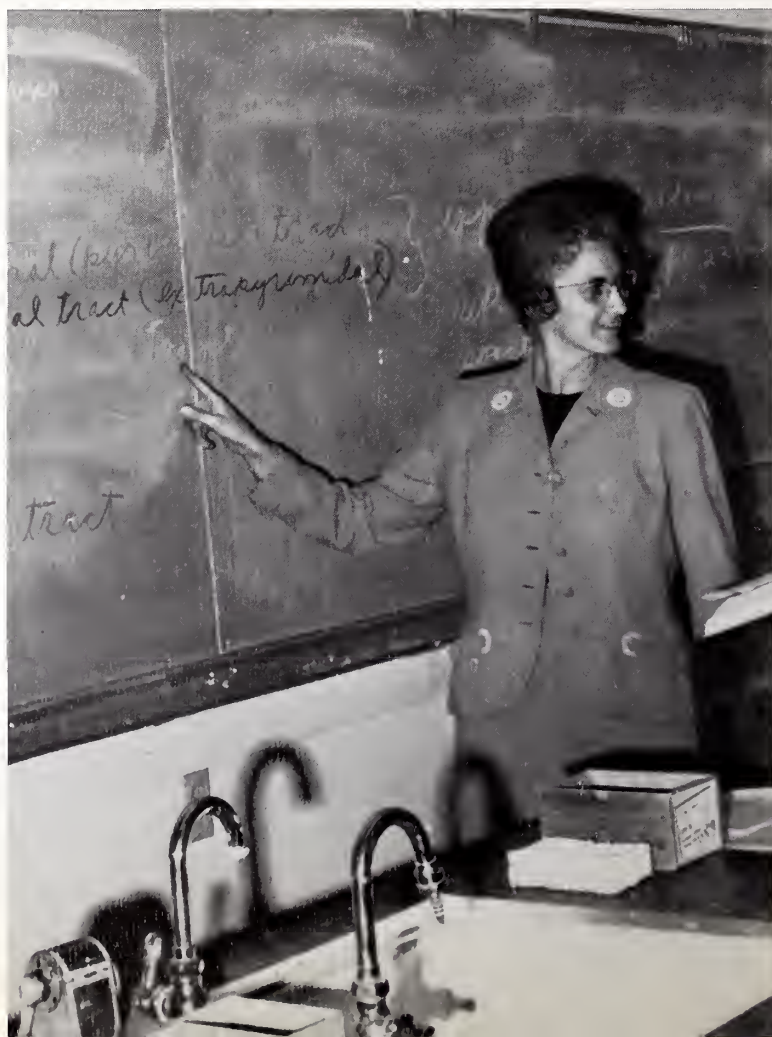

BIOLOGY

Field trips, laboratory assignments, and extra projects all contribute to the difficulties and rewards of studying biological sciences. The professors encourage biology majors to pursue their field and achieve in it, and provide a solid foundation of study for pre-medical, pre-dental, pre-veterinary and future teaching students.

Lloyd E. Downs, Ph.D. Whether discussing philosophies of science or comparative anatomy, Dr. Downs, division chairman, shows himself widely versed in the biological field in the under-graduate and graduate courses.

Elmer A. Widmer, M.A. Herpetology, with a specialization in study of the rattlesnake, is the area of interest for Mr. Widmer, also instructor of the life science course.

Geraldine Tupper, M.D. She helps students in boning up on bones and muscles in the nursing anatomy and physiology and microbiology.

The biologist's best friend—laboratory and microscope.

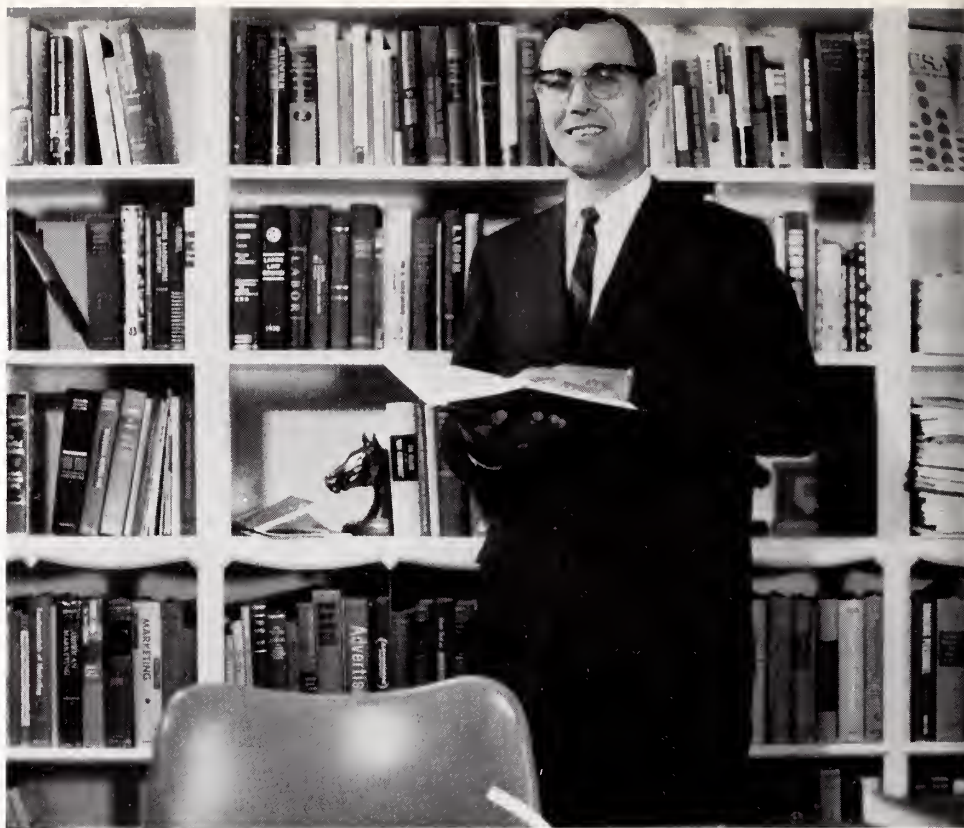

Earl Lathrop, Ph.D. Botany trips to Mexico are frequently conducted by Dr. Lathrop, instructor at La Sierra College and Loma Linda University.

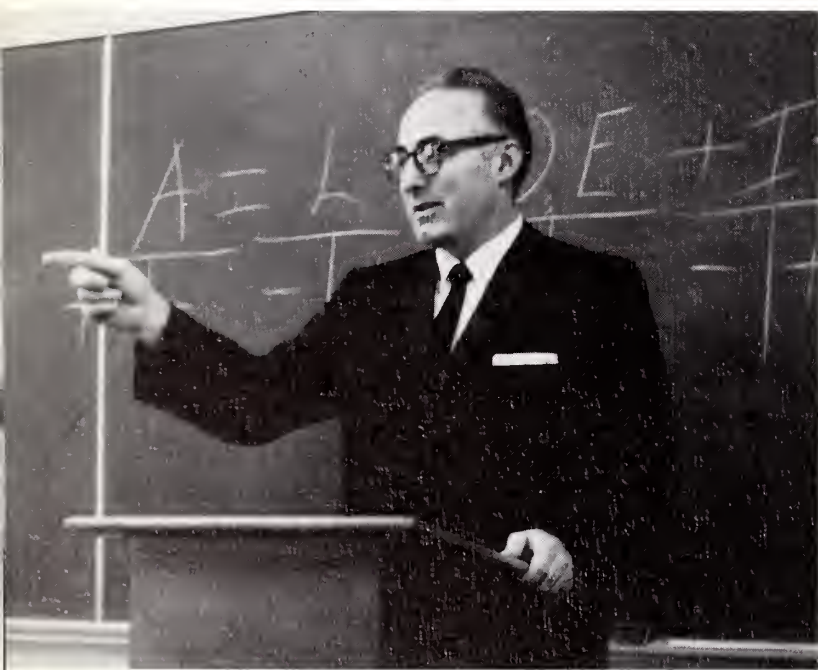

Harold R. Milliken, M.A. Well known for his zoology class; he is also an avid photographer.

BUSINESS AND SECRETARIAL ADMINISTRATION

As students become proficient in accounting, business law, and office management, they adequately prepare themselves to work well in small offices, hospitals, and large corporations. It is the objective of the department to see that those participating in the program develop both accuracy and a high degree of moral responsibility for their future positions.

Ralph L. Koorennny, Ph.D. Patiently assisting the stream of students yearly introduced to principles of economics, Dr. Koorennny willingly helps each student with his problems, and just as willingly gives of his time to assist the ASLSC in its budget balancing endeavors.

Harvey L. Caviness, M.Ed. The complexities of business accounting and income tax are discussed and explained by Mr. Caviness in his lower and upper division classes.

Fred Galles, Attorney at Law Legal aspects of business become interesting and clear as Attorney Galles cites many cases encountered in his practice.

Irene E. Ortner, M.A. Assisting a student, giving transcriptions, lecturing in class—facets of instruction for this professional secretary and head of the Secretarial Administration program.

Prudence G. Ortner, M.A. The courteous pleasant manner and the efficient instruction in business machines and clerical office practice presents a model to her students of a professional secretary.

Speed and accuracy are developed in typing sessions such as this clerical office practice lab.

"Concentration" is the key word for Corky Cornell and Don Shearer during a Chem. 5, 6 lab. session.

A large centrifuge, a polarizing microscope, both added to the department since last summer, aid the instructors in preparing students for medicine, research, and graduate school. Here it is possible to experiment, and to discover the chemical composition of all things.

Laurence W. Botimer, Ph.D. Voted "Teacher of the Year" (by his students who want A's!), Dr. Botimer observes the calculations of "C.J." Hindman.

Ray Sheldon, B.A. Ray Sheldon does double duty as graduate student and instructor.

CHEMISTRY

H. Raymond Sheldon, M.S. The 4 x 5 sheets of blank paper are symbolic of the campus tradition—a nickel (plus) quiz—this time from Professor Sheldon.

William D. Leech, Ph.D. The mysteries of physical chemistry become meaningful under the instruction of Dr. Leech.

Luella Latham Kretschmar, M.S. Her quiet humor and gentle proddings help the reluctant student toward an appreciation of chemistry.

EDUCATION

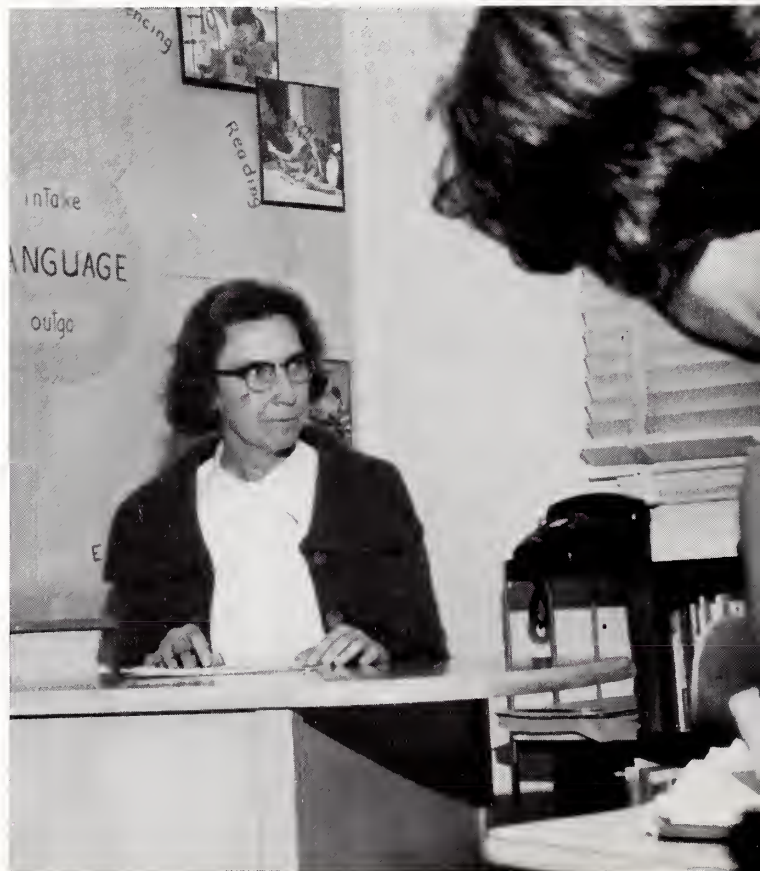

Classes in school leadership, curriculum, and history of education prepare those interested in teaching to enter the classroom with confidence and knowledge. The introductory courses provide a sound foundation for the day when upper classmen apply in elementary and secondary classrooms the techniques they have learned.

George T. Simpson, Ed.D. A combination of unique humor and exacting scholarship prove challenging to Dr. Simpson's students in education and psychology.

George Platner, M.Ed. Mr. Platner, assistant professor of education and direction of student teaching, is an expert in raising provocative questions on educational matters.

Mary W. Groome, M.A. Coordinator of elementary student teaching for La Sierra College and two affiliated colleges, Mrs. Groome prepares students for the challenging career of teaching.

Walter Comm, M.A. His past experiences in secondary school principalship add interest and meaning to the classes in school administration, finance, and guidance.

Willard H. Meier, M.A. Re-explaining a principle of psychology, or demonstrating the right way to thread a film, Mr. Meier shows an understanding of both subject and students.

Maybel Jensen, M.A. The intriguing study of exceptional children is conducted by Miss Jensen in her psychology classes through studying retarded and gifted children in our society.

Andrew N. Nelson, Ph.D. Dr. Nelson enthusiastically studies with his students principles of Christian education, and missions, drawing on a rich background of service in denominational education.

Tracy R. Teele, M.Ed. As Dean of Men, Mr. Teele has had many experiences in the area of personal and social adjustment, which he teaches for the education department.

Francis L. Brown, M.A. The sound of drums, cymbals or tonettes may be heard from Miss Brown's studio as education majors are introduced to the intricacies of classroom music.

Janet Jacobs, M.A. School psychometrist and instructor—Mrs. Jacobs—the administrator of tests ranging from college entrance to graduate record examinations.

ENGLISH

The English department endeavors to develop in the student an appreciation for literature and an ability to interpret it in compositions. After the collegiate struggle with term papers and grammatical points, it is hoped that the student will enter his adult life with a more discerning and critical mind as a result of his studies in English.

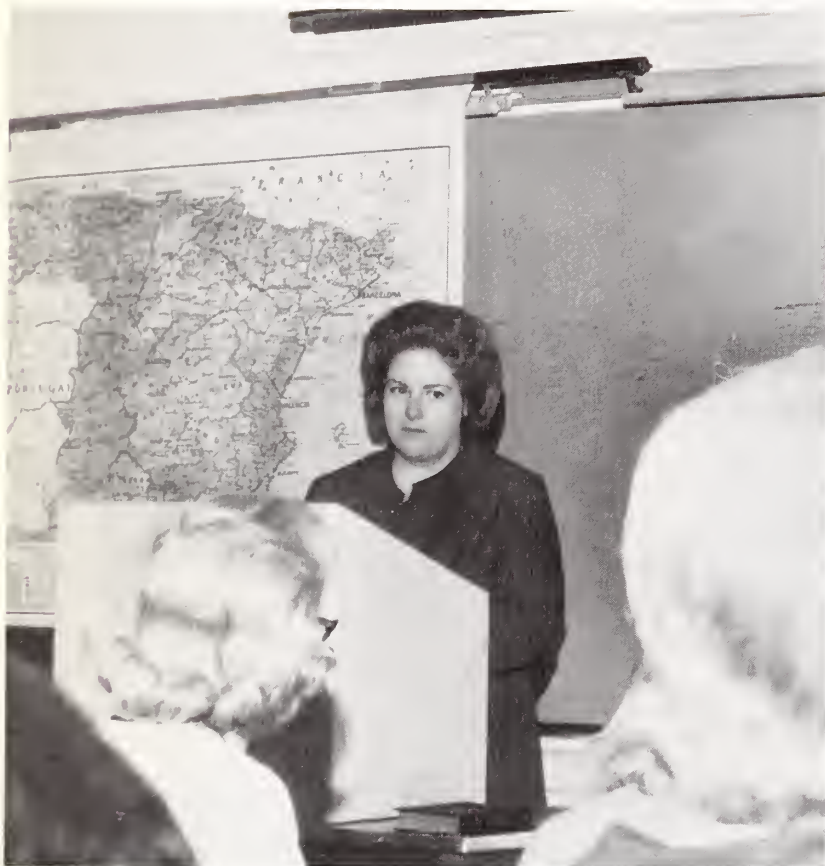

Richard B. Lewis, Ph.D. Dr. Lewis, a busy but thorough professor, successfully fulfills the duties of Academic Deon and Chairmon of the English Department.

Thomas Little, Ph.D. An authority on Shakespeare, former Deon of the Graduate School at Loma Lindo University, Dr. Little's closses ore a challenge to oll who toke advantage of his knowledge.

Nancy Murdoch Bull, M.A. With her chorming Scottish occent and thorough knowledge of English grammor and literature, Mrs. Bull inspires her students to ottoin higher ideals in English mostery.

Marilyn Teele, M.Ed. Comprehension, understanding and speed are principles involved in the speed reading classes taught by Mrs. Teele, who also teaches classes in grammar and composition.

La Sierra College now offers a minor in journalism, providing an opportunity for students to write for the weekly newspaper, for local newspapers and also for participation in an internship program with the Riverside Press.

Helen F. Little, M.A. Whether teaching a class in Freshman English or a class about Victorian poets, Mrs. Little's unique presentation and exacting knowledge adds interest and motivation to the classes.

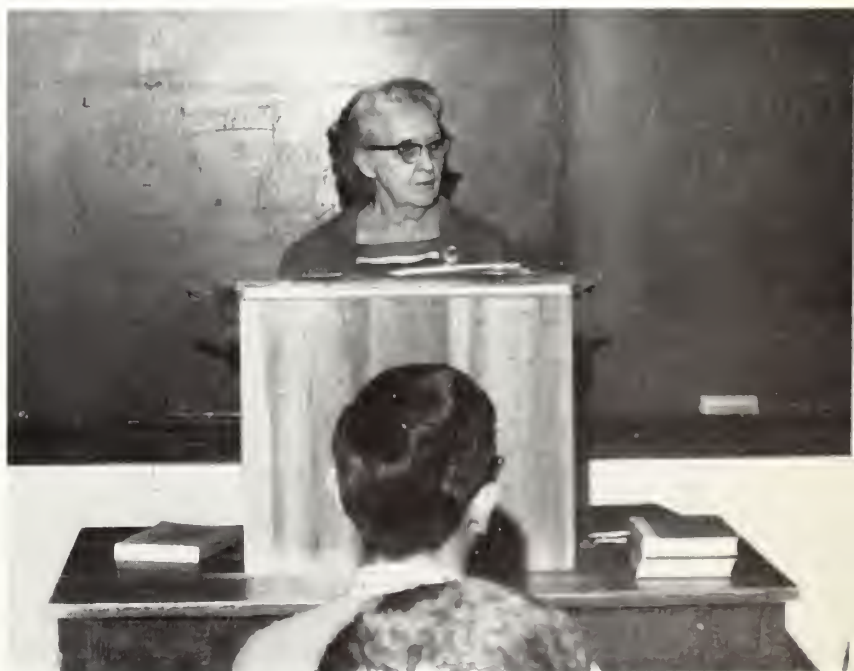

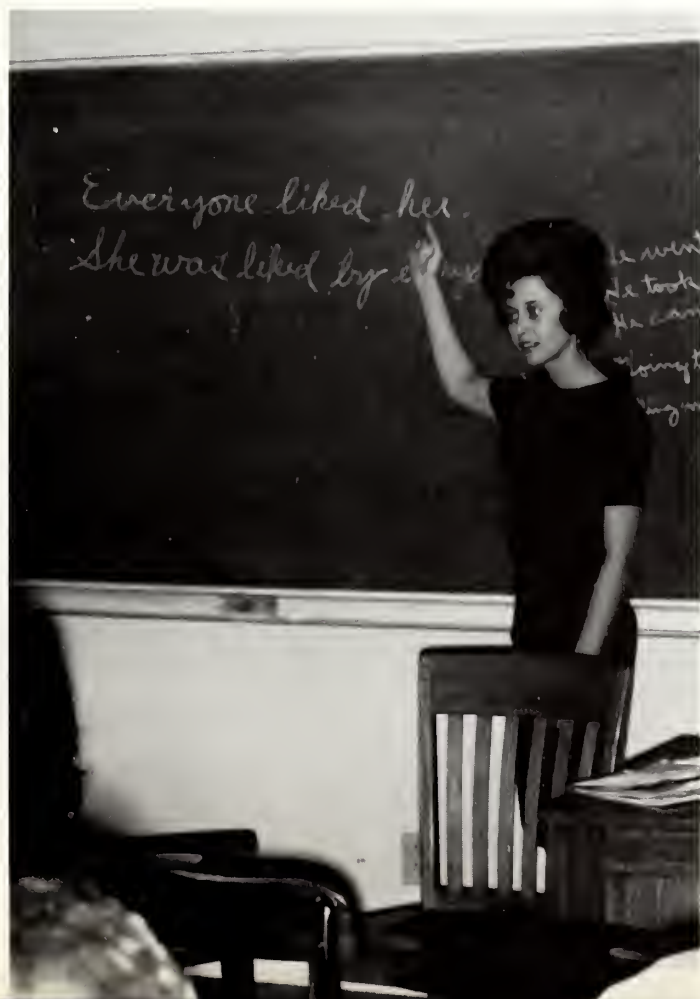

C. A. Oliphant, M.A. Developing a "nose for news" in college students is the aim of Mr. Oliphant, head of the Journalism Department, and advisor for the Criterion and co-advisor of the Meteor.

Lawrence E. Mobley, Ph.D. Appreciation and understanding of great literature is developed in the upper division and graduate prose and poetry classes taught by Dr. Mobley.

Lillian L. Beatty, M.A. Adventures in King Arthur's grave, Mark Twain's Missouri, and Rip Von Winkle's haunts liven the literature survey courses as Miss Beatty relates with humor and vividness her experiences of touring Europe and America with a literature background.

Maude O'Neil, Ph.D.

Marilee Cothren, B.A. The struggle with composition and grammar for the freshmen is made easier with the instruction of Dr. O'Neil and Mrs. Cothren.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL EDUCATION

As the physical education department teaches students the technical points of different sports, it also strives to emphasize co-ordination and the importance of consistent moderate exercise. In addition to the many classes offered for the general education requirements, the department offers a major in health and physical education, in preparation for teaching at the secondary school level.

Gymkana workout is performed by Heather Burns in a sword balancing act with Gymkana sponsor Christensen in background.

Viktor Christensen, M.A. An alert referee, Coach Christensen supervises a men's soccer game on the field.

Carolyn Haffner, B.S. "How to get the equivalent of a 10-mile hike into a 35-minute period"—the specialty of this P.E. instructor.

Does he or doesn't he—get the ball over the net?

Walter Hamerslough, B.A. Demonstrating serving techniques, Coach Hamerslough serves the tennis ball, then switches to flagball.

Mary Monteith, M.A. Visiting professor in nursing education.

Eugene W. Nash, M.Mus. Proper racket positioning is demonstrated by Coach Nash to a beginning tennis class.

HISTORY

Again this summer Dr. Wilfred J. Airey will supervise a La Sierra College world tour. For many this will be the culmination of their undergraduate history studies, which were more comprehensive this year with the addition of courses in comparative government and international relations.

Wilfred J. Airey, Ph.D. "And that is my political speech for the day," concludes Dr. Airey as he comments on current campus or international affairs before launching into the day's lecture on the aspects of U.S. or California history.

Frederick G. Hoyt, Ph.D. World history and political science are brought to life by Dr. Hoyt. He is also sponsor of the village club.

Walter C. Mackett, Ph.D. Dr. Mackett shares with his students, his rich knowledge of India, its culture, people, history and its political situation.

M. J. Sorenson, Ph.D. European History—before 1815, and since 1815—is the particular interest of this social science professor.

Alonzo L. Baker, Ph.D. A well-known lecturer and public speaker, Dr. Baker's classes on comparative government and Russian history provide further breadth to the course offerings in social science at La Sierra.

HOME ECONOMICS

It is the aim of the home economics department to train women to become familiar with techniques necessary to make a house a home. It is also hoped that after studying dietetics, clothing selection, and home furnishings, girls will see the importance of these phases of the field and go on to become professional home economists.

Mary Philmon Byers, M.S. Table service, flower arranging, meal planning—all a part of the instruction given in the foods and nutrition classes under the direction of Mrs. Byers.

Bette B. Davis, M.H.E. Efficient home management and home nursing become lab experiences under the direction of Mrs. Davis.

Ralph Morales putting the finishing touch on his cake during experimental cookery lab.

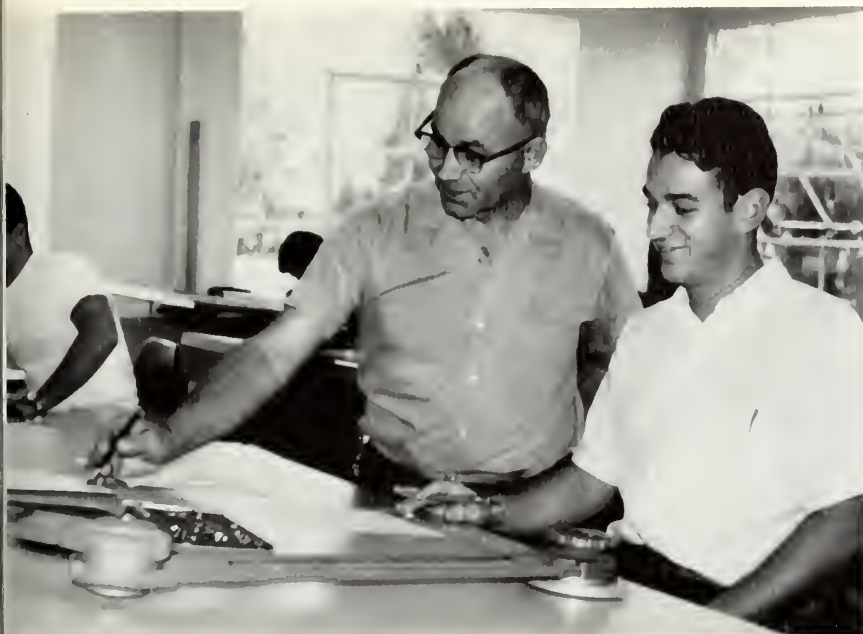

Yvonne Pasher Sonneland, M.H.E. Tailoring, dress-making, consumer buying—areas of instruction for home economist Mrs. Sonneland.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

There is a very real need for talented draftsmen, mechanics, and carpenters, and La Sierra College has a growing industrial arts program to meet this need. During the second semester the machine shop was expanded to include more equipment and service more students.

Two programs are offered—one which prepares students for teaching industrial arts on the secondary school level, and one which readies them for construction in industry.

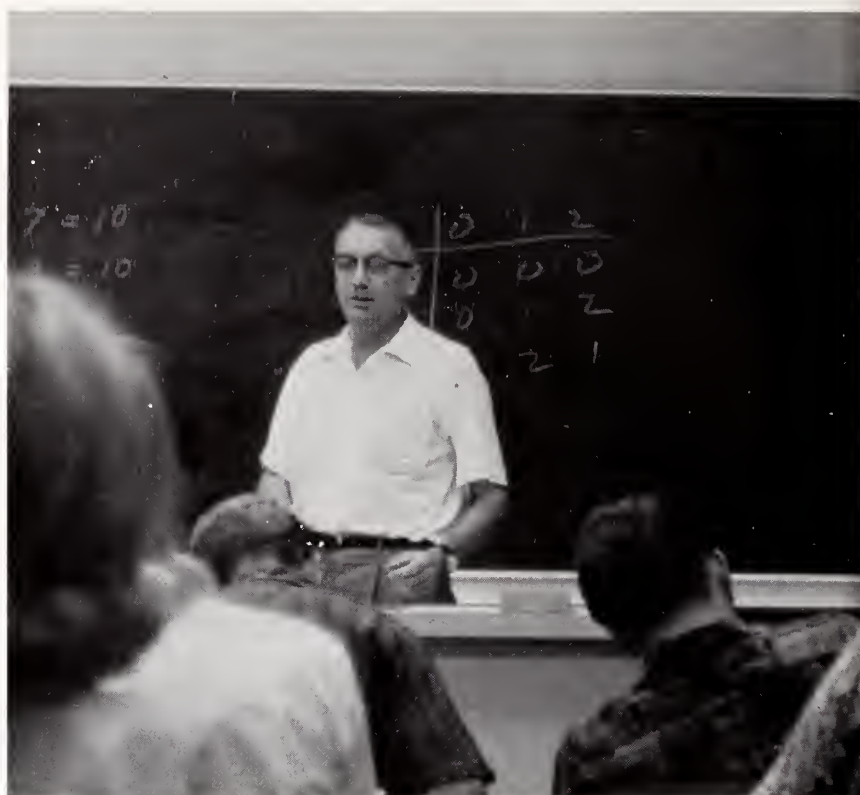

Jake J. Walcker, M.Ed. Technical drawing, drawing, furniture construction, and machine shop are all phases of the industrial arts program taught by versatile Mr. Walcker.

Dr. Little's hobby proves that an LSC English professor's interests vary in many branches of college life.

MATHEMATICS

The mathematics department was instigated in 1962-63 to develop analytical minds capable of grasping involved mathematical theories. Each June graduates go on to pursue advanced degrees in mathematics or enter teaching, prepared to instruct young minds in the science of numbers.

Hilmer Besel, M.A. If mathematics is the language of the future, this assistant professor of math will be ready to converse with anyone.

Practice gives proficiency, as mathematics majors gain experience in the use of digital computers.

Steve Shank and Neva Mason demonstrate a complicated mathematical concept.

MODERN LANGUAGE

French

Pronunciation and elementary grammar, and later literature and conversation bring the student closer to French culture. After the elementary rules have been mastered students who are really interested in the language are encouraged to participate in the Year Abroad program at Collonges, France.

Margarete Hilts, Ph.D. The head of the modern languages department and teacher of French is a Jill-of-all-trades and master of many, most recently honored by a Fulbright Scholarship for summer study in France.

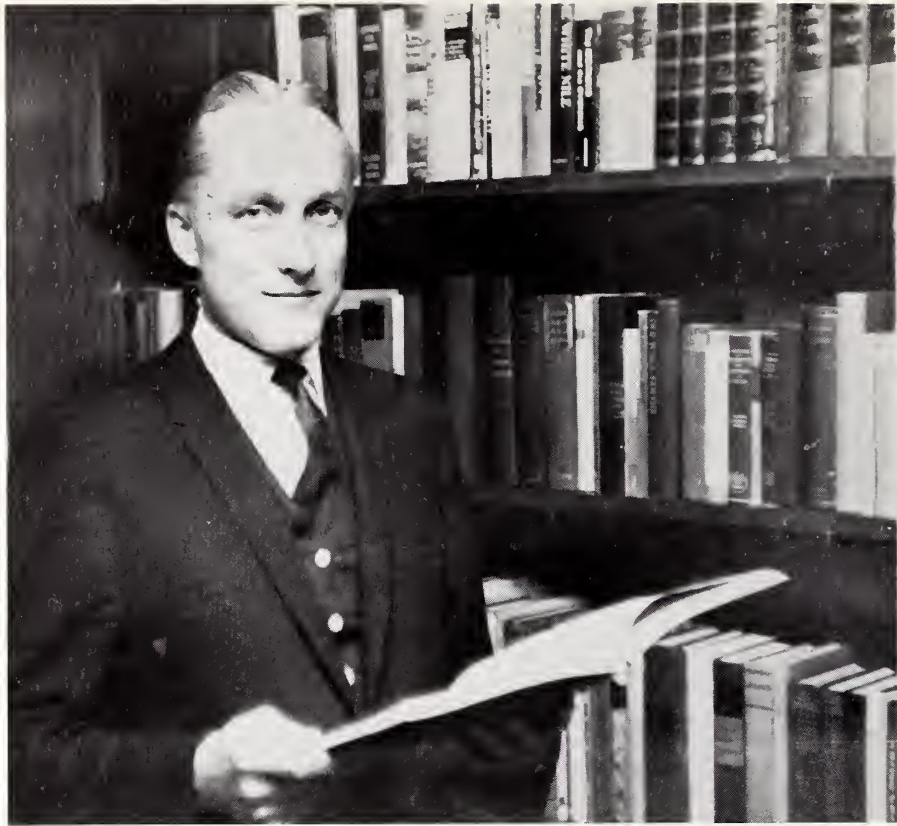

Hope Hayton, Ph.D. Small in stature but not in scholarship, Doctor Hayton teaches classes in Latin and French.

Madame Misson, M.A. Madame Misson, of Belgium background, provides a charming introduction of the French language to beginning students.

German

As students learn to cope with declensions and irregular verb forms, they gradually develop an understanding of German leading to participation in the advanced courses in scientific German grammar and reading. This year, for the first time, the language department is also offering a course in beginning Russian, under the instruction of Dr. Edward Ney.

Kaljo Magi, M.A. The helpful assistance of Mr. Magi encourages the confused and struggling beginning student and challenges the more advanced student.

Edward Ney, Ph.D. Keeping the class on their toes, active Dr. Ney is offering beginning Russian for the first time here at La Sierra College.

Exercises, drills, lists—those hours of study and concentration needed to grasp and retain new language and culture of another country.

Spanish

Under the guidance of Dr. Grace Alvarez, head of the Spanish department, students are able, not only to enroll in classes leading to a Spanish major or minor, but also to participate in programs in neighboring Spanish churches. A Latin America tour of eleven countries was sponsored for the first time last year under the direction of Dr. Alvarez, offering college credit.

Grace D. Alvarez, Ph.D. Putting life and vivaciousness into Spanish classes, Dr. Alvarez has helped greatly to strengthen and mobilize the Spanish study program.

Paul Holden, M.A. New with us this year, graduate student Paul Holden comes from UCLA, and instructs in the Spanish Department.

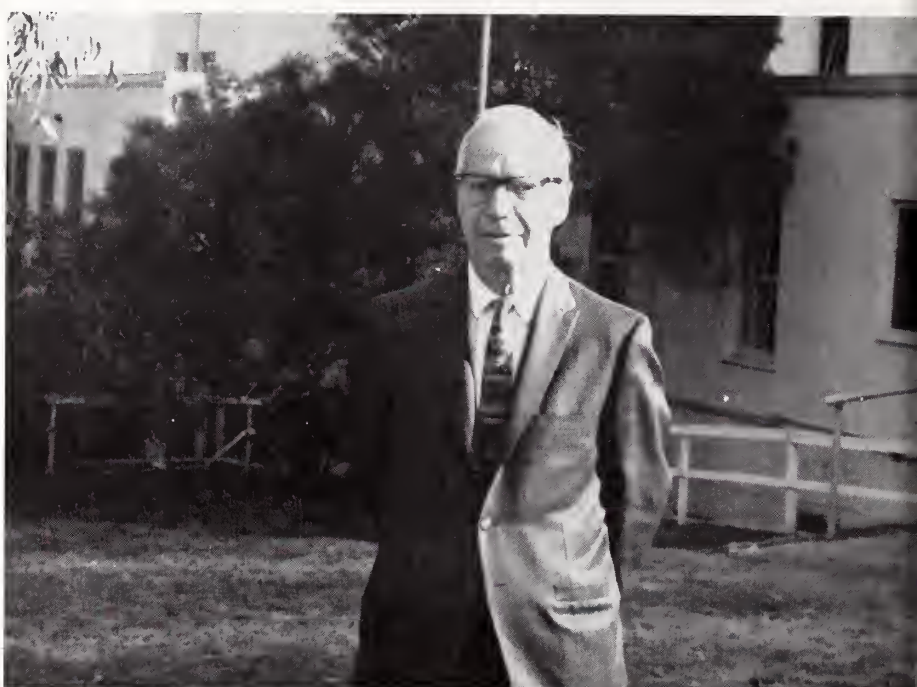

The Spanish classes' choir takes the scene with "Mala-gueña" during the Modern Language chapel on November 9, 1964.

Choir II, under the direction of Mr. Chalmers, is composed of sophomore, junior and senior students.

Band tours, choir trips, and orchestra presentations all contribute to the La Sierra image in nearby cities. Campus entertainment is frequently presented by the music department, and the flat-rate system in effect this year has eliminated additional charge for music lessons, and enabled more students to take private lessons.

Harold B. Hannum, M.Mus. Serving as college and church organist is a part of the responsibilities of Mr. Hannum, department head, as he serves as instructor and organ teacher.

H. Allen Crow, Ph.D. "One and two and three . . ." and another difficult passage has been mastered.

MUSIC

Perry Beach, Ph.D. Muted strains of the harpsichord form a beautiful accompaniment, as played by Dr. Beach, pianist and composer.

Joann Robbins, M.Mus. Choir director for Choir I and the Freshman Singers, Miss Robbins enthusiastically states, "They're a great group of students."

Choir I and the Freshman Singers, under the direction of Miss Robbins.

Moses A. Chalmers, B.M.E. A versatile music man, Mr. Chalmers directs Choir II, plays the bass vial, and sings baritone.

Eugene W. Nash, M.Mus. Equally at ease with tennis racket or baton, Mr. Nash directs the college band and instrumental ensembles.

Marjorie Ziprick As a newcomer to the music staff, Mrs. Ziprick provides the needed incentive for piano students.

The La Sierra College Band and Collegians under the direction of Mr. Nash.

Return of the 1890s—in performances by the Chamber Singers this year under the direction of Mr. Chalmers.

"The Sound of Music" rendered by bond and Cheryl Coy, percussion, during rehearsal.

Alfred Walters, M.Mus. As a renowned virtuoso of Lo Siero, Professor Walters continues to inspire many young violinists.

PHYSICS

A continuous Helium-Neon gas laser, new in the department this year, will help physics students in their experiments. Professors urge students to plan their own projects using the intricate lab equipment, and discovering for themselves the concepts of physics.

James Riggs, Ph.D. Demonstrating principles of advanced physics, Dr. Ribbs, head of the department, makes use of an opaque projector.

Lester Cushman, M.S. A veteran teacher; Mr. Cushman has taught for 34 years in the physics and math fields and serves the college as an electronics expert.

Donald Lee, Ph.D. Well known for his physics and physical science lectures, Dr. Lee demonstrates water pressure for the class.

PSYCHOLOGY AND SOCIOLOGY

Stanley Bull, Ph.D. A professor of psychology with wide experience, Dr. Bull's British background flavors his lectures in the classroom.

Through the introductory psychology and sociology classes, instructors encourage interested students to enter social work, personnel management, and related fields. Hopefully, all students who have an introduction to the study of society and human personality will be better equipped to get along with others after they leave school and enter their various professions.

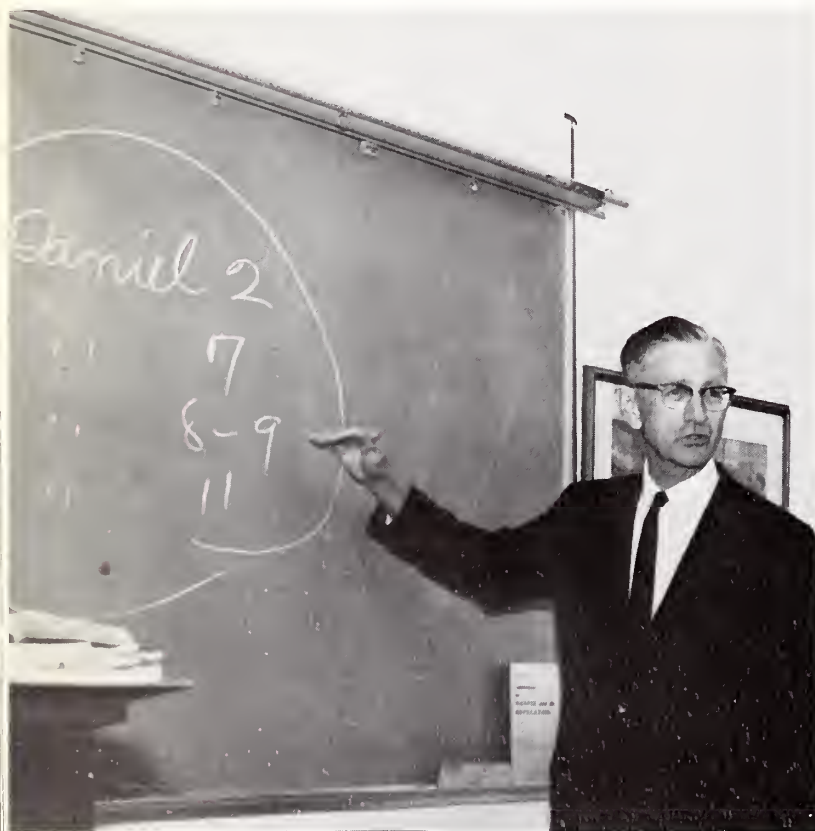

Betty J. Stirling, Ph.D. Statistics, social problems, social work—areas of study in the field of sociology under the instruction of Dr. Stirling.

RELIGION

From the time the freshman first enters the class Life and Teachings of Jesus, until the day he leaves as a graduated senior, he is continually advised to study and to discuss the true meaning of his own personal religion. He is encouraged to take part in religious activities on campus and to share his belief with others.

Walter F. Specht, Ph.D. Attending a professorial workshop in Israel last summer was one of the pleasant aspects of the responsibility as department chairman for Dr. Specht.

J. Cecil Haussler, Ph.D. His rich knowledge of church history has made Dr. Haussler a valuable member of the religion department.

Robert Osmunson, M.A. As instructor, author and student recruiter, Elder Osmunson serves the denomination and college.

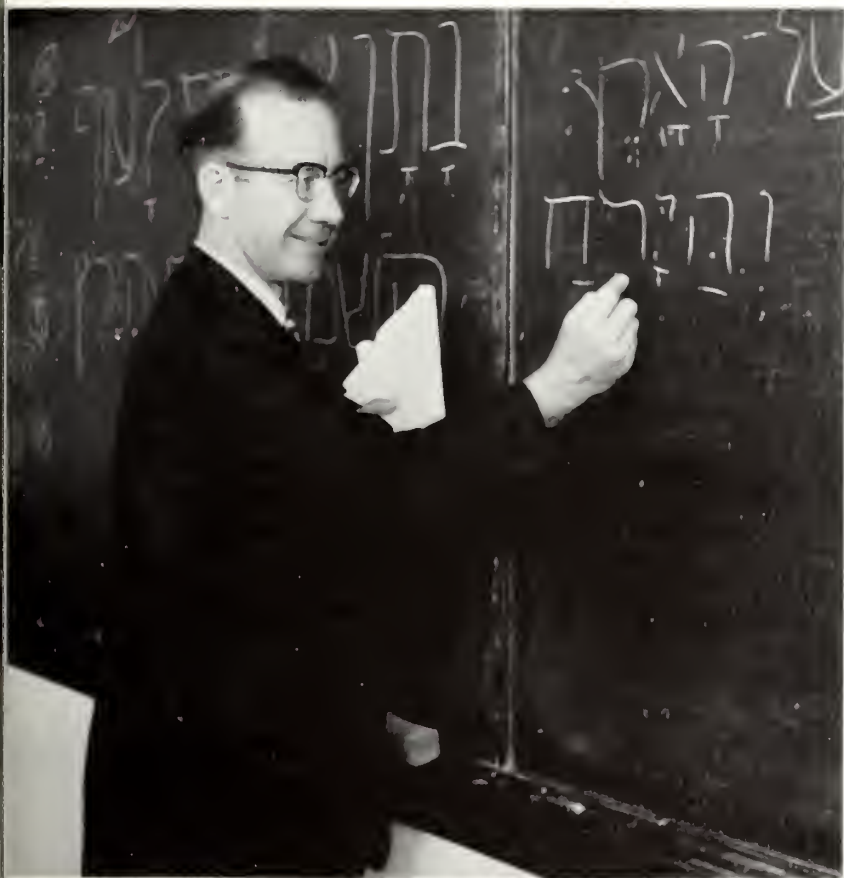

Daniel L. Cotton, B.D. Elder Cotton, assistant professor of religion, has also served for several years as advisor to the Ministerial Fellowship Club.

Harold E. Fagal, M.A. Principles of evangelism and Bible study are made interesting through the knowledge and experiences of Elder Fagal.

Royal Sage, B.D. Biblical language becomes a challenge under the instruction of Elder Sage.

W. Fletcher Tarr, Ph.D. Instructing speech and speech pathology classes and co-ordinating a speech therapy program keep Dr. Tarr, department head, at a busy pace.

SPEECH

La Sierra students are being trained in the new field of speech therapy, which offers promising careers, and this year several senior speech majors have been given assistantships, enabling them to gain experience in teaching speech. Each spring the department sponsors a drama production, presented by undergraduates.

Donald Dick, M.A. If being assistant professor of speech doesn't keep him busy, being general manager of KSDA-FM does.

Paul O. Campbell, M.A. Closes in discussion and persuasive speaking become meaningful with the instruction of this visiting professor.

Kenneth K. Lutz, Ph.D. Helping people overcome speech handicaps and training others for this work is his specialty.

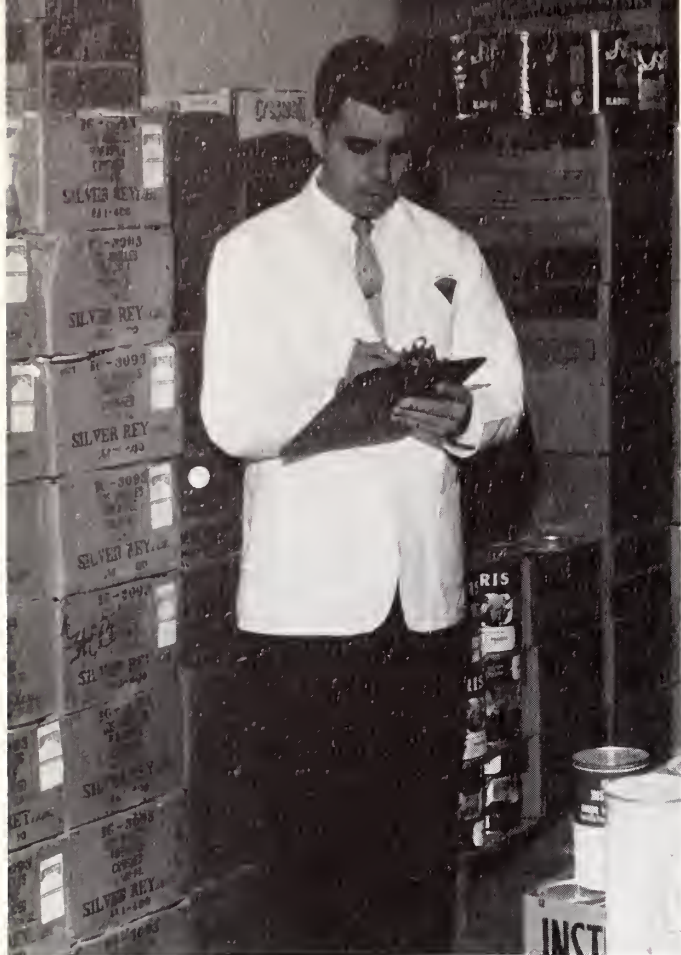

Hol Curtis

Morcia McDonough

Student instructors of introductory speech.

Margaret Palmer, Ph.D. Principles and procedures of speech are developed with the instruction of Dr. Palmer.

Food Service Management was directed this year by Mr. Paul DeMazo, a dietitian from Glendale.

Campus director and assistant of the Food Service is Miss Ruth Deming, who co-ordinates the work of the cafeteria and snack bar.

The campus snack bar—to fill your needs.

The cafeteria was moved temporarily to College Hall during the Christmas vacation, in preparation for the remodeling of the old cafeteria building. This year food budgets and meal plans were simplified by a flat-rate system, which provides the food service department an assured budget.

A hum of activity dominates the scene of the busy serving decks.

CAFETERIA

Hostess Mrs. Walcker courteously seats Bobetta Shearer and companion in the dining hall.

The beckoning smile of hostess Mrs. Hill enables students to spot vacant places among the many diners.

The chatter of voices and cheerful chime of silver are a part of life for students.

HEALTH SERVICE

Girls are able to take introductory anatomy courses and liberal arts classes before entering the hectic routine of the hospital. At the same time they can see actual nursing in process as student ills are cared for by the campus health service.

Dale Curtis, M.D. Just a phone call away, Doctor Curtis, school physician, has treated the aches and pains of students for the past several years.

Pearl Wolfsen, R.N. Efficient school nurse, Mrs. Wolfsen is quick to sense illness versus "examination quakes" as she cares for the siege of sore throats, fevers, and headaches and other student ailments.

Arthur Mickel, M.D. Also serving as school physician, Doctor Mickel advises and treats student afflictions from head to toe.

SERVICE STATION AND THE STORE

Dispensing gas, oil, and water to students and community members, the service station does its part to keep transportation moving.

Last summer the college market moved into new air-conditioned quarters next to the P.E. department. This was the first phase of the Ten-Year Plan for the development of the college.

Mr. Marlin, store manager, displays college dairy products in the roomy college market completed a year ago.

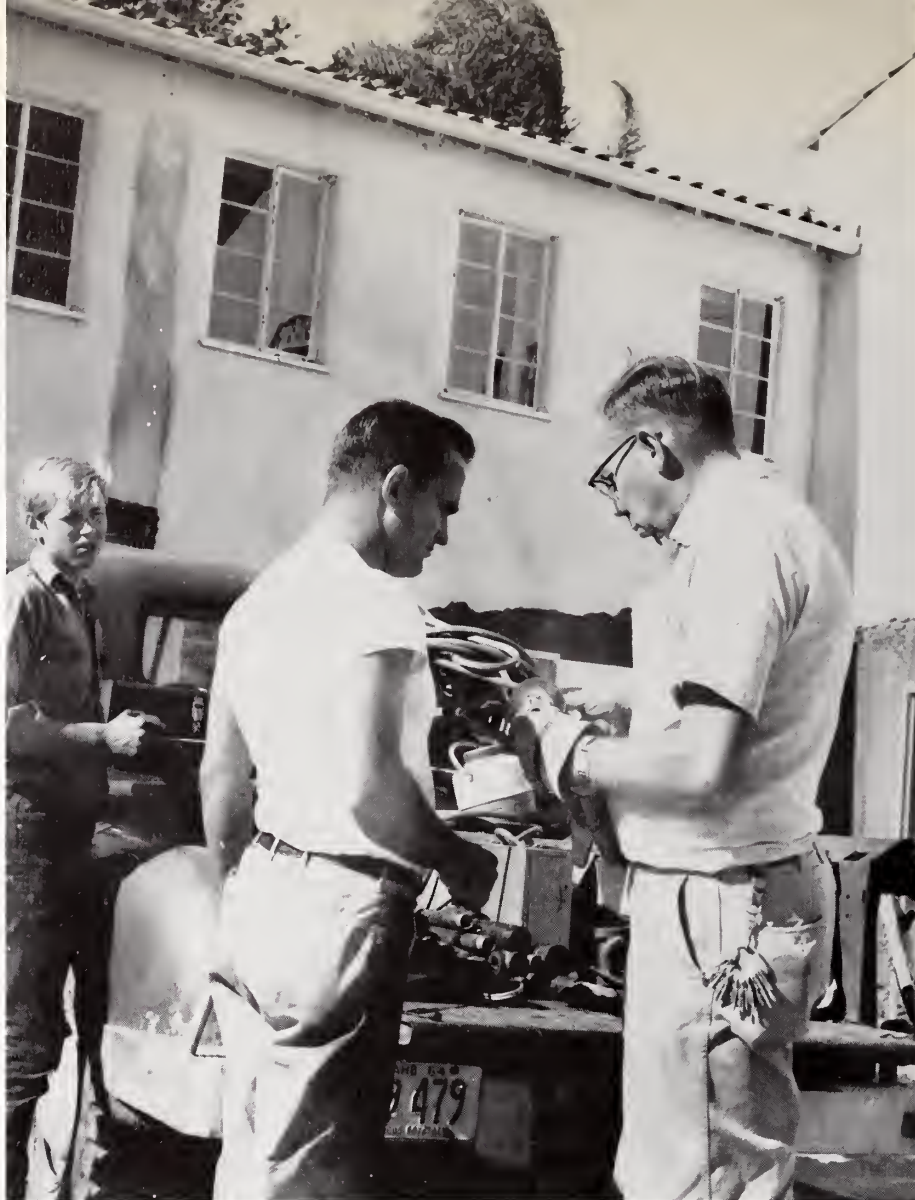

Service with a smile is performed by attendants at the college gas station.

An expanded bookstore section with school supplies, music, paperbacks and textbooks makes shopping convenient and close.

SERVICE DEPARTMENTS

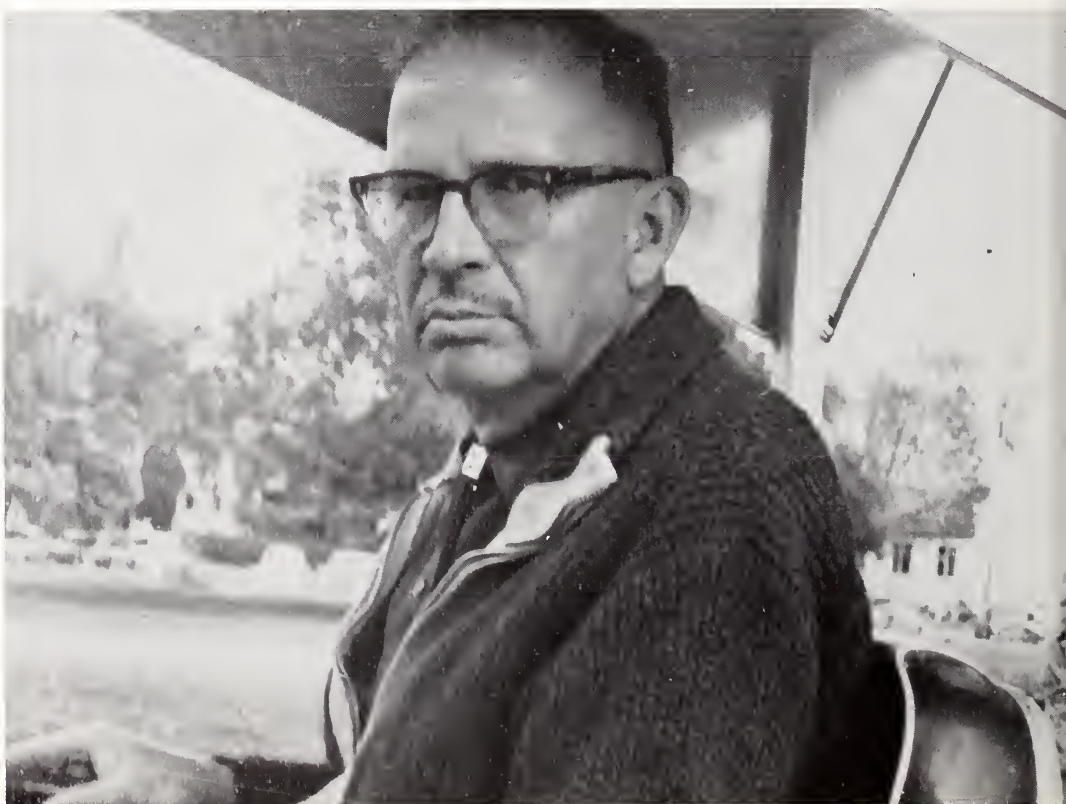

The 58-member maintenance crew has had its responsibilities greatly increased with a variety of new construction begun on campus. They were responsible for the moving of the power plant and the installation of the air-conditioning in La Sierra Hall, and the completion of the New Student Center. The custodial staff, which numbers 43, is continually faced with the challenge of keeping the campus in workable and presentable condition.

John Clough. Coordinating the various construction and remodeling projects on campus, the quick grasp of problems and patient manner are characteristics which help Mr. Clough maintain peace and progress on the La Sierra campus.

La Sierra's lawns and gardens are kept green with student assistance.

Raymond Montgomery. A quick glance at the situation, and Mr. Montgomery, custodial supervisor, saves the day with his crew wielding mops, brooms, rakes and hoes.

LAUNDRY AND SECURITY

Clifton Hill, B.A. Courteous, efficient service typifies the college laundry, under the management of Mr. Hill.

This year the college security force moved to its new enlarged quarters. This group does a most careful and thorough job of protecting students and school property.

The laundry processes student towels, sheets, and clothing, and takes special pride in its efficient two day processing period.

B. J. Cao, B.A. "Big Chief Security" Cao smiles approvingly at the check-out report of the night patrol.

A year comes, a year goes;
freshmen become seniors,
and seniors become graduate students or housewives or wage-earners.
We forget which countries exchanged hands at the Vienna Conference, how to conjugate German verbs,
how to find the square root of 18296;
but sometimes we still remember the uninhibited classroom laughter of the professor we first thought so stern and the moments of understanding we shared with all our fellow students right before exam week.
We recall the good times and the hours gone but not forgotten, and hopefully we remember, always,
that our entire La Sierra College experience was intended to instill in us a deep and lasting desire to serve Him.

LEARNING IS || STRENGTH || INEXHAUSTIBLE

In what aspect of his life does man demonstrate incontrovertibly his kinship with God? Does he quest for truth as one whose thirst is unslaked? Does his mind probe the conditions of his time and station . . . seeking to solve the riddles . . . to set straight the crooked . . . to light the dark . . . to heal the wounded . . . to distill from the sum of his experience an essence of the verities? . . . Unremitting pursuit of truth, the product of which is creative endeavor, is indisputable evidence of man's heritage from Him in whose image man is made. Because the quality of his mind determines the quality of his life, a wise man lays up knowledge. It is better than choice gold. It is strength inexhaustible. For its source is God. In this Sixtieth Anniversary year Loma Linda University commends to its friends everywhere diligence in inquiry. □

Behind that door-- lies responsibility
a test of human courage
a world of challenge.
The person going through that door-- is a woman.
She has education to meet the responsibility
love to give her courage, and dedication to face the challenge.

The optimist wonders how high his kite will fly. The pessimist wonders how soon his kite will fall.

What is your view point? Will your life's ambitions soar high to fulfillment? Or will they sink earthward to oblivion?

The choice is yours.
